ANTIOCH PREPARES FOR 11TH ANNUAL FAIR NEXT WEEK

Entries Are Pouring in; Entertainment Numbers Are Booked

MORE THAN USUAL INTEREST SHOWN

Antioch's big three day fair starts one week from today, Thursday, October 4, and will continue through Friday and Saturday at the Antioch Township high school grounds and buildings. The fair will be open each night also.

Thursday will be entry day and no admission will be charged until Thursday evening when all entries will be in place, the fair in full swing with the appearance of the first free acts and entertainment.

Notwithstanding the drought which retarded most of the crops in this locality, indications are that entries in both agriculture and horticulture departments will be nearly standard, according to Emmet King, secretary, who in former years has had charge of the farm products exhibits.

Interest in Fair Grows

Entries are pouring in and there is every assurance that there will be full exhibits in all classes, according to officials of the fair association.

"More than usual interest is being shown in both the exhibit and concession lines," King said. "The dairy and fur bearing animal classes are new this year, and considerable interest has already been shown by those who are planning to exhibit in these departments."

Judging of exhibits will begin at nine o'clock Friday morning.

Entertainment Features

Band concerts under the direction of Hans Von Holweg will be heard twice daily, and there will be music by the Harris family of Gurnee appearing in special numbers.

The Savilla-Frazier Trio, famous acrobats, will be seen in clown and comedy feature acts each afternoon and evening. Then there will be the usual amusement concession stands.

Style Show Popular

Prevailing modes in women's wear for every occasion will be seen in the style show sponsored by Mari-Ann's Dress Shop, Antioch. Dresses for street wear, house dresses, formal frocks, sport wear, and hats for every occasion will be shown on real models. All the newest materials and styles will be seen at the style show in the women's exhibition department.

The style show in former years has been an extremely popular feature at the fair, but this year it will be doubly attractive for there will be a style show for men, too. This time it's Otto S. Klass, proprietor of Antioch's popular store for men's and boys' apparel, who sponsors the show. And it's only fair play—for many years the girls of the community have regaled the male population with a ditty style show. Now the females may feast their eyes on the latest and most fetching male attire, worn by models "from right around here," Mr. Klass declares. He will have the live models on hand, even if he has to keep them in a cage.

The ten classes of exhibits and the superintendents of each department follow:

Poultry and pigeons, Bert Edwards, superintendent; Dairy cattle, Kenneth Denman, superintendent; Rabbits and fur-bearing animals, Lloyd Atwell, superintendent; Agricultural products, Charles Padlock, superintendent; Horticulture, Kenneth Hillis, superintendent; Fine Arts, Miss Lotie Jones, superintendent; Domestic arts, Mrs. Clarence Crowley, superintendent; Pantry stores, Miss Ethel McGulre, superintendent; Education, W. C. Petty, superintendent.

Admission to the fair will be 25 cents for adults. Season tickets, good for five entries, Thursday night, Friday, day and evening, and Saturday, day and evening, may be bought for one dollar. Season tickets also permit purchasers to make 15 entries of exhibits.

Children under 12 years are admitted free.

Athletes Busy in Intramural Sports Program

Athletic demons at the Antioch Township High school have much to occupy themselves with these days. An extensive intramural program has been launched featuring speed ball and soft ball. Basketball, too, has been started and those who are to represent our school on the hardwood floor this winter are practicing on their fundamentals. The reason for starting basketball now is to ground the squad well in fundamentals in order that the actual playing might be more effective.

Speedball is well liked by the students and played with enthusiasm every Monday and Wednesday evenings. The two races for the championships in speedball and softball each between two different teams will prove to be lively and of interest as the season progresses.

Speedball is a combination of soccer, basketball, and football and is played on a field somewhat shorter than the regular football field. The ball used is of the soccer type. The game is a lively fast moving one and provides thrills for spectator as well as player.

Champion Typist Gives Demonstration

Miss Dorothy Dow, World's Champion School Typist, gave an entertaining program during the assembly period Tuesday morning, at the Antioch High School. Miss Dow, who graduated from the West Technical High School, Cleveland, Ohio, represented the Woodstock Typewriting Company and used a machine from the typing department. The program consisted of advice based on Miss Dow's experience, two half-minute speed tests, and two piano selections. Miss Dow stressed the importance of posture, steady rhythm and accuracy to the student who wishes to attain speed in typing.

High School Clubs Elect Officers

The five clubs of the High School met Wednesday and elected officers and planned programs for the following year. The five clubs are: The Commercial Club, Math. Club, Latin League, Economics Club and Agricultural Club. The members of these clubs are students who have enrolled in these classes.

GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Lux was a dinner guest at the home of Edward Litchenberg Tuesday evening.

Ralph Trieger spent the week-end in Chicago with his aunt, Mrs. Richard Kennedy.

Second Grade
Shirley Van Dor Ave was absent Monday. She was ill with a cold.

We are all enjoying our new list.

Game, Fish Restrictions Cost Region Half Million Yearly, Pregenzer Says

Drastic restrictions recently enacted in the game and fish laws of Illinois deprive this locality of a half million dollars revenue each year, Ray Pregenzer, well known sportsman and contractor of Grass Lake, revealed at the dinner given by C. K. Anderson and officials of the First National Bank of Antioch at Club Cedar Crest Tuesday night.

There is scarcely sufficient reason why sportsmen should be deprived of approximately 27 weeks fishing and hunting each year, Pregenzer said, citing that the fishing season had been moved forward until there was no spring fishing at all and now that the waterfowl shooting season had been reduced to two days a week. These drastic restrictions have cut the revenue, not only of those who cater directly to sportsmen, but of everyone engaged in business in this locality. His estimate is that $500,000 is lost to the community each year.

Will Seek Changes in Laws

Pregenzer thinks the fishing season should be lengthened and that the madison shooting season should be different and earlier than the regular duck hunting season.

With a state fish hatchery, maintained at the expense of the taxpayers, with a few miles of the chain of lakes, Pregenzer says there is no reason why the lakes should not be plentifully stocked at all times. Mud hens are here by thousands many weeks before a shot is fired. Pregenzer and others will seek changes in the game and fish laws by having the matters presented to the state legislature at the next session.

Offers Equipment

Pregenzer, it was disclosed at the dinner, has offered the state waterways department free use of his $30,000 dredging equipment for any authorized improvement of the water courses in this region. The department is now engaged in making a survey of the region and will make recommendations when this work is completed.

ODD FELLOWS ATTENTION

There will be district meeting for all Odd Fellows of district No. 14 at Odd Fellows Hall, Antioch, Thursday, Oct. 11, at 8 P. M. Lodges from Hebron, Harvard, Crystal Lake, Belvidere, and Poplar Grove and Woodstock will be represented.

GIRLS DEFEATED IN FIRST GAME

In the first baseball game ever played with another school, girls of the seventh and eighth grades were defeated Tuesday afternoon by Lake Villa girls, 22 to 1. With more practice the girls hope to make a better showing in later games.

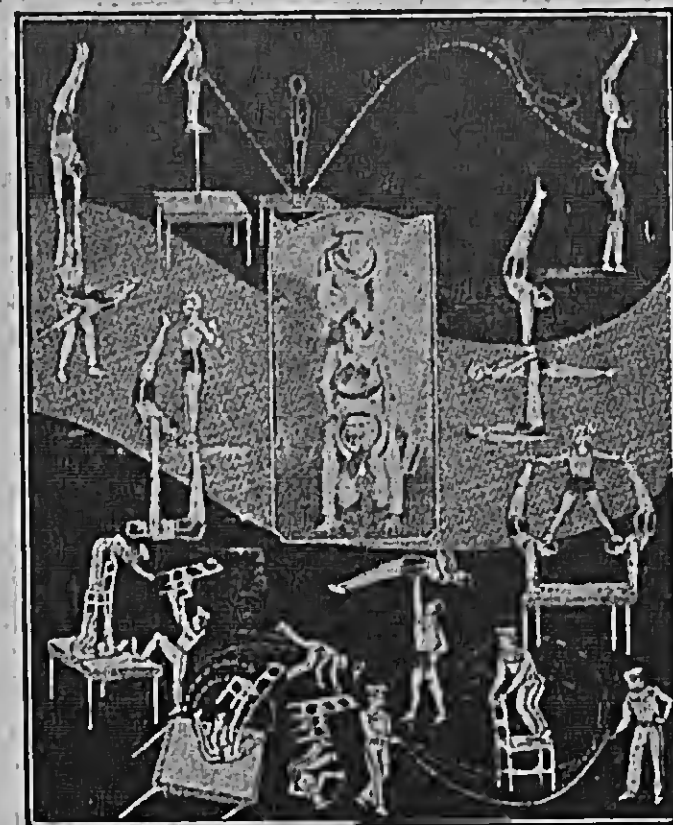

Antioch girls taking part in the game were: Katherine Smith, Lila Dalgard, Lucilla Thurwell, Florence Verkest, Mildred Horan, Frances McDougall, Irene Chinu, Loraine Larsen, Jean Sherman, Helen Lubkeman, and Lucille Waters.

The boys' team will play Round Lake on the home grounds Friday afternoon.

SELECT 1,200 WORDS FOR SPELLING MATCH

A list of 1,200 words to be used in the grade school conference spelling match to be held in December has been compiled by the committee composed of Principals Clabaugh of Antioch, Frye of Lake Villa and Bayler of Grayslake. The word list will be placed in the hands of pupils now and will be used later for the elimination contests. Words to be used in the final contests will be taken from the list.

Acrobatic Thrillers at the Antioch Fair

The Savilla-Frazier Trio will be seen twice daily at the Antioch Country Fair next Thursday, Friday and Saturday in sensational acrobatic feats, featuring comedy and clown acts. The trio is one of the most popular acrobatic troupes on the road.

Legion and Auxiliary Hold Joint Installation

Newly elected officers for both the American Legion Post and the Legion Auxiliary will be inducted into their office tonight at a joint installation at Moose Hall. Ex-service men and their wives are invited. Following the installation there will be dancing to the music of Xavier Hawkins and his orchestra.

Officers of the Legion who will take office tonight are:

Commander, Otto S. Klass; Senior vice-commander, Laurel Powles; Junior vice-commander, Joseph Smith; sergeant-at-arms, Harry Jensen; chaplain, L. John Zimmerman; Finance officer, George Garland. Auxiliary—President, Mrs. Katherine Relake; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Agnes Hillis; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Betty Mortensen; treasurer, Mrs. Carolyn Horan; secretary, Mrs. Mary Chase; chaplain, Mrs. Helen Radtke; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Dorothy Shults; musician, Mrs. Lillian Jensen. The installing officer will be Mrs. Mary Chase, who was recently elected district director.

Democrats Use Radio To Reach Lake County Voters

The third of a series of radio programs sponsored by the Lake County Democratic Central Committee will take the air Tuesday, Oct. 2, at 6:00 P. M., over station WGBD (1030 kc) with Charles Nell, Democratic candidate for Probate Judge, the speaker. Bart Tyrrell and Russ Alford, Democratic candidates for sheriff and county clerk respectively, have already appeared before the microphone.

"The enthusiastic reception given by letters and phone calls from these initial broadcasts is truly gratifying," states Philip J. McKenna, chairman of the campaign committee, in announcing these radio speeches.

Other Democratic candidates are to appear on successive Tuesdays following the Nell broadcast, and a speaking tour throughout the county is to start with a meeting in Zion October 2, according to McKenna, who states that plans are being made for mass meetings in all cities and villages and unincorporated communities in the county.

Daylight Saving To End Sunday; 11½ Years

Antioch and a majority of communities in Lake county, together with many other cities and villages in the Chicago area will turn back the hands of the clock next Sunday morning at two o'clock when Daylight Saving ends. Fully 100,000 residents of Lake county lost an hour of sleep last spring when the hands of the clock were turned ahead to provide an extra hour of daylight. These 100,000 hours of sleep will be regained next Sunday morning. One hundred thousand hours is equivalent to 4,166 days, 138 months or eleven and a half years. Therefore Lake county people will gain back 11½ years of sleep in one night.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS SUNDAY

Antioch All-Stars Will Meet Channel Lake Bears in First Game

The Antioch All-Stars will pry off the lid of the 1934 football season here Sunday afternoon when they meet the Channel Lake Bears at the local high school field.

The All-Stars, who have been at hard practice, report that their line will weigh close to 162 pound average, and will probably be outweighed by the Bears. The All-Stars are reputed to be a fast starting, hard charging line, and they are hoping their speed will more than offset the advantage in avoidpools held by the Bears. Antioch also has developed a fine aerial attack upon which they will rely for gains.

The starting lineup for the All-Stars will be: Ends—Pacini, Blahop; tackles—Hahn, Palsake; guards—Fachay, Murphy; center—H. Schneider; halfbacks—Keulman, O'Hayer; quarterback—W. Schneider; fullback—Shoen.

Managers Bill Keulman and Bill Murphy announce that admission to the game is free. That ought to bring out a good crowd to see the opening game.

AMUSEMENTS

"Million Dollar Ransom" and Vodvil at Gateway

Another smashing vodvil show, plus screen attraction, "Million Dollar Ransom," is the offering at the Gateway theatre, Kenosha, Saturday and Sunday. An extra attraction is Milt Herth, joy boy of the organ, playing songs you love to sing.

Starting Monday the Gateway offers a "three-unit perfect entertainment—Miriam Hopkins, in "Richest Girl in the World"; "La Cucaracha," technical color sensation; and "Dumbell Letters," a load of new laughs.

"Belle of the Nineties" With Mae West Opens Next Mon. at Genesee

"Belle of the Nineties," at the Genesee Theatre, starting Monday, Oct. 1, the third of the Mae West starring pictures to come from Paramount, shows the blonde siren again in a setting of the gay '90's, which was the period of her first picture, "She Done Him Wrong."

Surrounded by three screen sweethearts, Roger Pryor, John Mack Brown and John Miljan, together with Duke Ellington and his orchestra, Katherine DeMille, Warren Hymer and Stuart Holmes, Mae West essays the role of the country's most sensational burlesque queen of the period. As "American Beauty," Mae West becomes involved with an ambitious young prize fighter, Roger Pryor, of St. Louis; but, through the plotting of the prize fighter's manager, the romance is broken up, and Mae West accepts an opportunity to leave St. Louis to become queen of a popular gambling palace in New Orleans.

MRS. H. P. LOWRY DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Born in Sweden; Was a Resident Here for 45 Years

Following many months of illness, Mrs. H. P. Lowry passed away at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at her home at 971 Victoria street, Antioch. Her husband, and her sister, Mrs. John Grant, of Chicago, were at her bedside when death ended the long period of illness.

Mrs. Lowry was born in Sweden 79 years ago, and came to the United States when she was 25. She had lived in the vicinity of Fox Lake, Lake Villa and Antioch for the last 45 years, and she had many friends throughout the locality who will mourn her passing.

She was married to H. P. Lowry in 1896, and the couple had made their home in Antioch for the past 13 years.

She is survived by her husband and a sister, Mrs. John Grant, Chicago, and one brother, Eric Lund, also of Chicago.

Funeral services conducted by the Rev. L. V. Sitter will be held at the Antioch Methodist church Friday afternoon at two o'clock, and burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Anderson and Bank Officials Entertain 30 Antioch Men

Thirty Antioch business and professional men were guests of C. K. Anderson and the First National Bank officials Tuesday afternoon and evening at Cedar Crest Club.

At the finish of the round of golf it was announced that Jim Buckley had turned in the lowest score. E. R. King had the honor of making the longest drive, something under 400 yards, but he was also accused of making the shortest drive from a tee.

A fine dinner awaited the golfers at Club Cedar Crest, the contribution of the bank officials. Around the table after dinner many community problems and projects were discussed by the diners. All were enthused over the announcement by Mr. Anderson that the newly organized Illinois Waterways Association seemed to be on the way towards effecting improvements in the waterways and lakes of the region. The group expects to go before the state general assembly in January to ask for a substantial appropriation for making the improvements that are so badly needed.

Out of town guests were Bill Brandt, Chicago, and Lawrence Doolittle, Waukegan.

For several years Anderson has entertained his fellow townsmen at golfing parties, and at the close of the dinner Tuesday he invited the bunch to be with him again next year. The year officials of the First National Bank of which Anderson is president, provided the excellent dinner.

HANSON OUT OF CONGRESS RACE; FILED TOO LATE

Severin Hanson, prominently known Waukegan contractor, war veteran and leader in the affairs of the National Taxpayers party who two weeks ago announced his candidacy for congress from this district on the independent ticket was forced to withdraw because of his inability to file in time to get a place in the ballot.

After deciding to enter the race Hanson found that he had less than 10 days in which to obtain 12,500 signatures to a petition of his candidacy. He and his friends succeeded in obtaining 10,000 signatures but on learning that they could not secure the additional 2,500 in time they ceased work.

This leaves the race as a clean out issue between the Republicans and Democrats in the district with Ralph B. Church as the candidate on the former ticket and David B. Maloney on the latter.

TAXES COST MORE THAN FOOD

Last year according to the United States News, the American people paid $1,035,000,000 for medical services, $2,160,000,000 for fuel and light, $3,600,000,000 each for clothing and for home rental, $7,650,000,000 for the most basic necessity of all, food—AND $9,000,000,000, FOR TAXES!

The increase in taxation—local, state and national—is the most startling and menacing economic development since the world war. It was not so long ago that we used to pity overtaxed European countries, in the belief that we were escaping their experience. Today, with the cost of all forms of government soaring in the face of diminishing taxable assets and earnings, we are very close to the European level. Recently England, one of the heaviest taxed countries, enjoyed a general tax reduction, made in the interest of industrial recovery. The United States, unhappily, has no such prospect.

A great part of the tax money does nothing to encourage industry—some of it is actually used for projects and experiments which discourage and throttle private initiative, retarding employment, rather than increasing it. It is a bar, not a spur, to purchasing power. It stands in the way of investment, industrial expansion, farm and home ownership. It is creating a vast, wasteful and inefficient bureaucracy which waxes fat while the public which supports it starves.

Industrial recovery and employment are inextricably bound up with the tax problem. Until government retrenches, all our efforts to go forward will be largely futile.

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

by R. M. Hofer

I was talking to a very earnest lady recently who was enthused about the idea of "redistributing the wealth of the United States." I don't think she really knew the meaning of the phrase, but it seemed to have a nice sound to her.

She said the capitalistic system should be changed and limit the amount of money any one person could have to not over one million dollars.

I agreed no one would starve on a million and asked her what her plan was for stopping industrial leaders when they had made their million. In other words, when would such men cease to be laborers, from which point they started, and become capitalists?

If Henry Ford had been shelved when he made his first million, the world might have waited years to enjoy the millions of cheap automobiles he has built.

Ford is merely an example of the individual genius of a laboring man, which can be seen on every hand in the United States. It was this genius that built our nation.

You cannot limit genius and at the same time give its beneficial results to the people.

Those who thoughtlessly talk about redistribution of wealth, confiscating capital through taxation and whether they know it or not, destruction of millions of jobs and wiping out of savings.

My intellectual lady friend was up a tree, as it were, when she started to try to decide, "When is a laboring man not a laboring man?" or "When does he become a capitalist?"

YOUR GREATEST PROTECTOR

The nation has just observed "Constitution Week." It was sponsored by the American Legion, which carries on continuous work in the interest of better Americanism.

In these trying times, it will benefit every citizen if he looks backward into a nation's past. One hundred and fifty-eight years ago the Revolution came to an end. A handful of patriots, who had suffered great privations for long years of war to break the bonds of governmental oppression, marched home. Shortly afterwards they established the United States of America—and for the first time in world history liberty and equality became the fundamental governmental principles of a great nation.

There is danger that, in our effort to obtain temporary benefits and favors, in order to meet a periodic depression ("casual embarrassment" in the life of a nation, as Thomas Jefferson described it) we as a people will lose part of the great heritage that was handed down to us by our forefathers. Today the Constitution is under attack—critics would have us believe that it has outlived its usefulness, and is only a scrap of paper. If the Constitution is outmoded, so is liberty, so is the right to the pursuit of happiness, so is the right to ownership of property, and the privilege and duty of working and saving for one's self. The Constitution deals with the basic principles of liberty, equality and freedom from oppression which are as timeless as the seas.

Every American citizen should resolve to do all in his power to maintain constitutional liberty—liberty which was won with blood at Yorktown.

STEPS AWAY FROM LIBERTY

"There are those who assert that revolution has swept the United States. That is not true. But there are some who are trying to bring it about," writes Herbert Hoover in his new book, "The Challenge to Liberty," just published by Charles Scribner's Sons. "At least they are following the vocal technique which has led elsewhere to the tragedy of Liberty. Their slogans; their promise of Utopia; their denunciation of individual wickednesses as if these were the wards of Liberty; their misrepresentation of deep-seated causes; their will to destruction of confidence and consequent disorganization in order to justify action; their stirring of class feeling and hatred; their will to clip and atrophy the legislative arm; their resentment of criticism; their chatter of boycott, of threat and of force—all are typical enough of the methods of more violent action."

"In our blind groping we have stumbled into philosophies which lead to the surrender of freedom. The proposals before our country do not necessarily lead to the European forms of Fascism, of Socialism, or of Communism, but they certainly lead definitely from the path of Liberty. The danger lies in that tested human experience, that a step away from Liberty itself impels a second step, a second compels a third. The appetite for power grows with every opportunity to assume it, the power over the right of men leads not to humility but to arrogance, and arrogance incessantly demands more power."

Motorists Now Paying More Than Quarter Total Income Of State Government In U. S.

Map shows relative share of states' total tax revenues paid by motorists through taxes on gasoline alone in 1932, latest income data available. Gasoline sales taxes provide more than 55% of Florida's state revenue, about 50% in Ohio, and 33 1/3% in 10 other states.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Back of agitation for reduction of gasoline tax rates in Michigan, Ohio, Florida, Tennessee, Colorado, Massachusetts, New York, South Carolina, and other states is the picture of the motorist paying, through this one levy, more than one-fourth of all tax revenue collected by state government.

Probably none suspected when the first 1c gasoline tax was imposed by Oregon in 1919 that tax rates would rise as high as 11c a gallon and that this levy would make the motorist the heaviest single taxpayer in most states and gasoline the largest single source of revenue. Yet aggregate income of all states in 1932, the year for which latest income data are available, is reported by the U. S. Department of Commerce as $2,150,182,297, of which $611,011,742, or 28.4%, was derived from taxes upon gasoline. The motorist probably contributed more than one-fourth through gasoline taxes in 1932, it is estimated by the American Petroleum Institute. New York, South Carolina, and other states is the picture of the motorist paying, through this one levy, more than one-fourth of all tax revenue collected by state government.

Florida in 1932 collected 55% of its total revenue from gasoline, the largest share of any state. Nearly half of Ohio's income came through motor fuel sources, and 10 states—California, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, North and South Carolina, Oklahoma, and Tennessee—each collected one-third of total income from this one commodity.

An additional federal gasoline tax is collected in all states, and in some states there are also additional county and municipal taxes upon motor fuel.

After a Lapse of 50 Years

By Mary Story Howard

We started from Sutter Creek the morning of July 3, 1889, expecting at San Francisco a steamer, would be waiting for passengers. It was not and we spent the Fourth there and wonderfully enjoyed it for we had never seen much of soldiers or army maneuvers. All the principal countries were represented by men in uniform, and with many fine horses. We saw it all from the balcony of the Tremont hotel. The next day, no boat having arrived, those who did not care to wait longer looked among the tramp steamers and all sorts of unseaworthy old tubs, for a chance to get away. Six hundred and forty of us went aboard one, and soon found we had made a mistake, but there seemed no other way, as the mainline boats were very irregular. Our boat lacked everything a boat should be supplied with; for one thing, they had not taken on enough water, and what there was appeared to have been in filthy old tanks until it was too thick and smelled too loud to drink. One day there came a shower, and all were on deck to catch the rain, some with towels or handkerchiefs to drink the water wrung from them. So many complaints were made to the captain, that he concluded he would stop at Acapulco, which bettered conditions as he was able to get very good water by waiting for the natives to bring it from back in the hills in kegs on donkeys. It was slow work, and he could not get a sufficient supply. There being so many of us we never had enough, but did not suffer. At this port we were very cautious until invited to land, as there was always some kind of war going on.

So the captain had a gun fired and did not dare drop anchor, but kept steaming around the little harbor until, to answer, a gun was fired from the fort almost over us. Then we cast anchor, and officers came on board to see what we wanted. We were given permission to go ashore, as some did. The natives brought to us boatloads of oranges, limes, bananas and other fruits. Here the harbor cannot be seen from the ocean, there being just a narrow passage wide enough to let a boat go slowly through between walls fifty and a hundred feet high. For fear of striking the rock it seemed we sometimes stood still. It was a very small harbor, with a fort high up in front, where the cannons could blow a steamer to atoms or sink it at one shot. The water was as calm as though there were no ocean.

The little natives were as much at home in the water as ducks, and the passengers would throw dimes (their smallest coins then) into the water to see them dive—and they would get them every time and come up grinning. All were dressed in the same suit they came into the world with, and had never worn any other; clothes there, not being necessary for old or young, were seldom worn.

What made it more necessary to stop here for water was that when not more than six days out of San Francisco, at eleven o'clock at night there was an alarm of fire. All turned out in short order, but the crew was quick enough to fasten down the hatches before many could get on deck. If they had, it might have capsized the old tub. At two in the morning the worst of the fire was over, but it afforded exciting times while it lasted. We knew there were not enough boats to hold one third of the people, and perhaps not a boat would have lasted to reach land. Once we saw human nature at its worst and best at such a time. There was a little woman on board by the name of Coffie, almost a girl, who had left her husband in San Francisco and was going to New York her home, with two little children less than three years old. One would scarcely look her way for courage, but she sat in the saloon, dry-eyed and still, both children in her arms and all in their night clothes while others were rushing around like crazy people. She seemed to find comfort in the thought that her children would go with her. In the morning, there was a crowd of tired but happy people. The water in the tanks had been used to fight fire; thus we must stop as we did, at Acapulco.

No Complaint of California

Sailing on, when we came in sight of the city of Panama with prospect of soon landing for a few hours, it seemed too good to be true. There was no harbor there in '89, so steamers could get no nearer than two miles. So we were met by what were called lighters, taken inland, and then had to take small boats to reach shore, or be carried on the backs of the natives, in a chair.

We crossed the Isthmus by rail, forty-eight miles to Aspinwall, now called Colon, where there was a nice deep harbor. All but myself I think, enjoyed the trip across, but for me car sickness was as bad as sea sickness, and I was able to enjoy but little of the scenery. At evening the same day we went on board the "North Star" of the regular line, a fine boat, with good officers and good service, a place to enjoy one's self. If it were only on land; or for some I suppose even though it be on water. We started in a fearful storm that lasted nearly all night, and as the passengers had been indulging their appetites the consequences can be imagined by anyone who has ever been there. Considerable damage was done during the night by the storm and rough weather.

I remember in the dining-saloon the glasses, in racks above the table, were ruined, and in the first cabin saloon a large sofa broke loose and was hurled across the room, where it came in contact with a full length beautiful mirror, which was soon shattered being thrown about the room with other things also broken loose. In the morning the storm had cleared away, but the sea was rough, as it usually is in that part, and so different from the Pacific. We were south and east of the island of Cuba all one day, but not near enough to see anything clearly—just a green expanse of shore and mountains. We saw land several times, but I do not remember the names of any of the islands. I was seldom able to be on deck to see anything or I am sure I would not have been content, even if I had not found out the names, not to have known more about the journey home, for I always loved Geography.

I do not know how many days it took to reach New York, but it was a beautiful Sunday morning. The church bells were sending their delightful chiming to us across the water, and some of the passengers sang "Home Again, Home Again," but it was not our home. We were in the city several days sight seeing and trading, as before we crossed the Isthmus of Panama we threw overboard one trunkful of clothes we had worn until this, to save the high rate of baggage. We had started as light as possible, very little baggage being allowed, and now needed something to wear until we were settled in a home of our own, and could work at our leisure.

We went from New York to Oswego, where my mother's relatives had lived since they came to America years before; here we stayed some time, I don't remember how long. From there Mart Howard, who was returning with us, went to his father's home at Polaski, where he stayed until November. Then he again joined us at Antioch, Illinois, where my parents had located on a farm, and here we were married on January 1, 1890. Here my sister Brona H. was born, March 19, 1891. She now lies buried in the cemetery at Waukegan, Illinois, having died in 1896, at Arlington, South Dakota. My father died in Waukegan in 1884, my mother in Antioch, 1891; my husband, Mart Howard, in Antioch in 1898. They all lie in Union Cemetery, in the township of Antioch, Illinois, from which place the long journey was begun. And were I but a little younger, I would like to go again to California.

I do think that if all had to get there as my family did, they would have no complaint to make, either of its climate or people.

Mary Elizabeth Story Howard.

Let Chevrolet tell its own story of riding and driving comfort

Make the ownership
test

THE best way to get at the truth behind the fine things you hear and read about the new Chevrolet, is to get in the car and drive. Take this car, drive it over the same routes, in the same way you drive your present automobile, and let the results you can see and feel tell their own story. You have heard that Knee-Action makes bad roads good, and good roads better. A ride will prove it. You have heard that Chevrolet provides shock-proof steering, Synchro-Mesh gear-shifting, a remarkably flexible 80-horsepower engine, and cable-controlled brakes. A few minutes at the wheel will show you what a difference these advancements make in safety and driving ease. And when the ride is over, and you step out refreshed and ready for more, you will know why so many thousands have found it impossible to return to ordinary driving after an experience like this. That is the Ownership Test—easy, enjoyable, and the most practical way to choose a car.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Learning at Luncheon

No one really expects children to have a knowledge of their nutritional needs, or calories, vitamins and the like.

If left to themselves with an opportunity to choose, they would eat chiefly of those things that "taste good." Hence, a problem faces parents and teachers alike, for when such important information is available we can't just let it accumulate and lay idle. It is too significant to health and success and happiness. It must be put to work in the lives of people.

But the majority of parents either do not have scientific knowledge of foods and nutrition or they don't know how best to teach children. Thus the responsibility falls to the educational institution of the community, which these same parents support and to the staff of teachers who understand how to make knowledge function in the lives of children.

It is in this light that the school lunch is taking form. Instead of being just a convenience for those who can't go home at noon, it is coming to be regarded as a learning situation. It is a laboratory where one of the chief essentials of life is practiced in a correct manner: until habits and attitudes are formed. Parents say that a good school lunch situation influences food selection and table manners at home. Principals say it makes for better school morale. And the pupils approve because they like it.

What about home work? Dr. Ireland will discuss it next week.

wouldn't buy those eyes

Yet in two out of three homes, children's eyes probably suffer from the wrong kind of lighting. Don't delay. Send today for our free light test. It measures accurately every light in your home.

HOW about the lamp by which your child reads? Does it give enough light? Does the light strike the printed page at the right angle? Is it free from the glare that works such havoc with eyes?

Experts estimate that in nine out of ten homes, some member of the family suffers from the wrong kind of lighting. Perhaps it's mother who is squinting because the lining of her reading lamp is too dark. Or the home may be so deficient in attractive, hospitable light that the young members of the family hate to stay home. Or father may be paying for light that is wasted through lack of the right kind of fixtures.

What correct lighting is

To protect eyes, you should have from 20 to 30 foot-candles of light falling on the printed page. It should be properly diffused with no glare, no deep shadows, no contrasts to cause eyes to change focus frequently. Under such lighting, eye tension is relieved. Your body relaxes. Your nerves relax, too.

Most women would be glad to give their families the benefit of safe lighting; to protect the eyesight of their children. But they have no way of measuring the kind of light their lamps give. And so night after night eyes struggle on with danger of permanent injury.

How to get it

In the last few years some wonderful discoveries have been made about proper lighting. Lighting engineers have found that just by changing the position of shades, by raising or lowering the height of bulbs, and by designing a special kind of "light reflecting" shade, these handicaps to eyesight are completely overcome.

See the new "Sight-Saver" lamps

Your Public Service Store has a variety of these properly designed lamps for sale. They are beautiful as well as safe for eyes. Come down and see them and at the same time learn, from our better lighting display, simple and easy ways in which you can improve the lighting in your home. And get Free, a marvelous little device called "The Lighting Tape Measure" which enables you to tell quickly whether or not each lamp in your home is providing safe light. Act at once. Cleaning Hints For Furniture and Rugs

Home Furnishing Specialist Tells How to Remove Spots and Stains

With fall house cleaning time just around the corner, homemakers everywhere are worrying about how they can brighten up the appearance of the living room rug or remove that ugly spot on the upholstered chair or velvet davenport.

To make this part of house cleaning as easy and as effective as possible, Miss Isabelle Hiltchcock, home furnishings specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, makes several timely suggestions.

For cleaning rugs or cloth upholstered furniture that are not badly soiled, mild soap flakes should be dissolved in warm water and stirred with an egg beater until there is a thick, dry lather, explains Miss Hiltchcock. The suds should then be tested on an inconspicuous place to make sure that the fabric will not fade. A stiff bristle brush should be used, applying the lather only to a small section of the rug or furniture covering at a time and always working a rotary motion until the lather is soiled. The soap should then be wiped up with a clean cloth or sponge wrung dry from lukewarm water. A generous application of suds will prevent uneven cleaning, but care must be taken to use only the dry lather so that the stuffing in the furniture will not become damp. Soiled furniture coverings such as tapestry, denim, rep or frieze which are fast in color may be freshened in the same manner.

Grease spots or oil stains may be removed from upholstered furniture and rugs by using napha or chloroform, carbon tetrachloride or a detergent. When using napha or chloroform, the furniture should be applied to the stain, working from the outer edge to the center and allowing it to soak in well. A piece of blotting paper is then placed over the stain and pressed with a slightly warm iron. If carbon tetrachloride is used, the spot should be sponged thoroughly with a cloth saturated in the solution, using another clean cloth to absorb the soiled cleaning fluid before it evaporates. All rubbing should be done with the nap.

Scratch grains build the yolks, laying mash the whites and shell membranes. With only one day to build whites and shell membranes, no method of storing them, it's absolutely necessary that the hen get laying mash every day. Too, the mash must contain white and shell membrane building material.

Educational Division—Purina Mills

Hens Need White-Making Material to Lay Eggs

White, yolk, shell,—that seems to be about all there is to an egg. But the job of building, or putting together, is not so simple. It is started by nature but helped or hindered by man, states Mr. E. B. Powell of the Research Division of Purina Mills, Gray Summit, Missouri.

"Take the yolk. They are in the chick the day it is hatched. That is the way breeding flocks have a long life-time laying ability."

Broadly speaking, egg yolks are developed from scratch feeds or grain. Scratch feed alone contains little white-making material. Hot, eggs can't be turned out containing yolks alone. A hen can't lay half an egg. The Missouri state poultry experiment station says that hens fed grain alone lay an average of only five eggs a month. The Texas experiment station says, "Actual feeding trials have shown that the best of hens cannot eat enough grain to produce more than 80 eggs a year. The common grains contain more fat producing elements but not enough of the principal egg-forming element called protein for most economical production."

It takes 14 days for a hen to develop yolk to full size but only one day to develop white and shell. That is why you find a cluster of yolks of varying sizes in a hen but no whites or shells. The hen must build the white and shell each day.

The laying mash for the most part makes the whites. There is some yolk making material in the mash feed but

Frances Lee Barton says:

Don't you like to surprise your guests with something unusual in the way of good choicer? I do. When I serve Chocolate Tea Biscuits with a cup of tea on a crisp, cool afternoon I can always count on flattering exclamations of surprise and delight. Also, I can count on seeing the biscuits disappear with speed.

Chocolate Tea Biscuits
2 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons combination baking powder, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup milk, 4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, sugar, and salt, and sift again. Add milk and butter and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Add chocolate and stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately onto lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll 1/4 inch thick and cut with 1 1/2 inch floured biscuit cutter. Bake on greased baking sheet in hot oven (400° F.) 12 minutes, or until done. Makes 3 dozen biscuits.

Though school has started mothers will be wise to keep alive the inclination to be out of doors as much as possible.

Fresh air should be considered part of the diet. It is absolutely necessary to the manufacture of new red blood corpuscles. Iron obtained from dark fruits, green leafy vegetables, bran, special meats or marrow is helpless without oxygen. The two combined work wonders, however, in building up a magnetic personality.

Have porch luncheons and dinners, auto trips, week-ends with picnic luncheons and field games, keep the house full of fresh air and teach the family to breathe deeply before each meal.

How to Launder Shirts

Garment Must Also Be Properly Folded for Best Results

If you are a novice in ironing shirts, try this way. First, iron the cuffs partly dry on the wrong side, then entirely dry on the right side. Next the sleeves; then the collar, as you did the cuffs. Fold the yoke and iron it; or iron it over the narrow end of the board. Now iron the back, the right front, and the left front, with an extra finishing touch on the plait.

A well folded shirt is as important to a man as a well-ironed one. First, lay the shirt flat on the ironing board and button it to hold it together. Then fold under each side of the shirt lengthwise about one-fourth of the width. Next, turn the garment over, keeping the front smooth and unwrinkled. Lay the extended sleeves lengthwise on the back of the shirt.

Now turn the bottom of the shirt up over the cuffs to hold them in place. Then carefully lift the lower part of the garment up to the collar. Collars and cuffs which are starched lightly will look smarted when ironed. If you have difficulty when ironing and folding, note the way in which now shirts are folded when they come from the store.

City Buyers

Test Selected Eggs in Many Ways

Methods of determining quality are constantly adding to the many troubles of the poultry raiser. If you are a producer for the fancy markets it is no longer enough that your eggs be fresh, that they be of uniform size, spotlessly clean or even that the yolks be of the same shade. Hotel chefs and discriminating housewives have added still another and by far the most difficult test designed particularly to show up inferior quality.

Poached eggs are a breakfast or a luncheon favorite with millions of city customers. The next time you poach look at the water in which your eggs have been cooking. If it is full of shreds of white floating around, your resulting product will have lost much of its valuable egg white. The yolk will not be covered with cooked whites and a watery taste will be most noticeable. You will be fortunate if the eggs do not break in removing them from the water.

By using the right quality of feed with healthy birds poultrymen can overcome this objection. At the Purina

Firm, Thick Whites—Superior

Experimental Laboratories, exhaustive tests were made on the eggs produced by different experimental rations.

Different feeds it was found influenced directly the firmness and poaching qualities of eggs. From these tests, it was possible to develop a laying mash that makes firm, thick whites—the kind that poach best.

The way to prove, of course, is to do. Poaching in the old fashioned way will demonstrate immediately the superior qualities of scientifically produced eggs. It is a showmanship test that many producers are now using to demonstrate to egg buyers, to housewives, and to hotel chefs why their selected eggs are entitled to a premium price.

Director B. F. Lindheimer of the state commerce department and also chairman of Gov. Horner's "kitchen cabinet" is in the market for "an idea man who can put Gov. Horner on the front page of every newspaper in the state in a favorable way." The statement has been made authoritatively that Lindheimer is willing to pay such a man "up to $15,000 a year, but he must be good."

The governor's present propaganda bureau in the state house costs the taxpayers about $40,000 a year, but is not satisfactory to the administration. Its employees are carried on various payrolls but all do the same work—trying to boost the most unpopular governor Illinois has ever had. It is reported that the new propagandist, if one is found, will be carried as an "expert" on the commerce commission's payroll.

Ag Research Aids Farmer

U. of I. Experiment Station Holds Outstanding Record.

When the public turns to economy, it begins to see it higher value in the research and investigation work such as is being conducted by the experiment station of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says Director H. W. Mumford. The record of that work is full of results which have reduced losses and wastes, produced the same output with less labor and money, paved the way to the production of higher quality crops, led to the development of more efficient marketing and overcome some of the risks of farming, thereby benefiting both the farmer and the consumer. Such results are the essence of economy.

For example, there is now a loss of more than $10,000,000 annually as a result of damage to perishables during shipment. Food producers and food users are the ones who eventually pay this bill. Damaged shipments have been inspected and studied in freight yards and produce terminals. Such studies by investigators of the Illinois experiment station have yielded suggestions which if adopted countrywide would reduce the loss by half, with consequent savings to the farmer and to the consumer.

The live stock industry of the state, which a few years ago was bringing farmers a gross income of $300,000,000, furnishes another example. Bang's disease, a contagious malady which causes the premature birth of calves and leads to other losses, is taking a toll of millions of dollars annually from cattle herd owners of the state. By means of research and investigation, a simple and practical plan has been worked out for controlling the malady through blood testing of the cows and sanitary management of the herd, thereby making it possible to rebuild healthy herds at a minimum cost.

Working through qualified veterinarians and other interested agencies, the University has attended the benefits of this plan to more than 500 herd owners in 24 counties of the state. One of these, Leonard E. Davis, of Coles county, stopped an annual loss of $300 on his farm. At the same time, the saving to the 500 farmers would amount to $150,000 a year. More farmers are enrolling in the project every year.

An estimated 1,650,000 bushels of corn which Illinois farmers lose every year as a result of the ravages of an insect known as the corn root aphid can be reduced by half through the use of proper rotations, dense planting, co-operative studies between the experiment station and the Illinois State Natural History Survey. The saving alone would be $100,000 a year.

Approximately $15,000 to $100,000 a year has been saved for orchardists of southern Illinois as a result of improved methods of spraying for San Jose scale. Just a year ago this pest was so serious that an outbreak in southern Illinois destroyed more than 200,000 bearing apple trees, wiping out the investment which growers had made in previous years for trees, labor, spray materials, and fertilizers and delaying the possibility of return from their land.

At that time lime sulfur sprays were practically the only commercial control known. Oil sprays developed since then cost approximately one-third as much as the lime sulfur sprays for covering the same acreage of orchard, are more easily applied and will kill from 98 to 99 per cent of the scale, whereas the lime sulfur sprays killed from 90 to 95 per cent.

These are only a few of the examples of the widespread benefits from the work of the University Agricultural Experiment Station. Scores of similar instances might be cited of how the research and experimental work is benefiting both farmer and consumer, the thorough reduction of wastes and losses, improving the quality of products and developing ways of marketing them more efficiently and profitably.

HOG RAISERS USE U. I. METHODS TO IMPROVE INCOME

Demonstrated Pork Production Adds Millions to Incomes.

Hogs bring in more than 25 per cent of the cash income of Illinois farmers, which means almost $150,000,000 annually under ordinary prices prevailing a few years ago. On January 1 of this past year there were 4,010,000 hogs on Illinois farms. If economical methods of pork production as demonstrated throughout the state by the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, had been used on all these hogs, the added return over common methods, at January, 1932, prices would have amounted to almost $13,000,000.

As a matter of fact, widespread use of the improved methods is now being made throughout the state and more farmers are taking up the plan every year as a result of the Illinois extension service program in economical pork production. At the end of 1932 it was reported that 2,195 farmers in different parts of the state were endeavoring to follow the methods.

Results of one of the experiments showed that soybeans can be used for brood sows without injuring the quality of the resulting pork. The 700,000 sows and boars in Illinois could handle an average of four bushels of soybeans a year. This would make a total of 2,800,000 bushels, almost one-half of Illinois' 1932 crop of 5,300,000 bushels.

It the U. of Illinois were closed entirely, and the money were not appropriated for some other purpose, the annual saving to taxpayers of the state would amount to only about three-fourths of one cent on the average tax dollar paid in property taxes. For a person paying $100 in property taxes, closing the University would save him about twenty-five cents.

WILMOT MOCK WEDDING FEATURES OLD GOWNS

Mrs. Howard Zoerb Dies in a Milwaukee Hospital

Wedding gowns dating back to 1877 and 1882 were among those worn at a program given at the Methodist church Friday night, as a highlight in a series of monthly entertainments being sponsored by the parish.

The program was in the nature of a mock wedding with Beatrice Newell as the bride wearing a gown belonging to Mrs. Pat Soudon and dating back to 1908. The wedding gown worn by her mother, Mrs. Lynne Sherman in 1915 furnished the costume of the maid of honor, Miss Shirley Sherman.

Other attendants of the bride were Lois Cairns, wearing a dress belonging to her mother, Mrs. Ivan Newell and first worn in 1908; Eva Vincent, in a gown belonging to her mother, Mrs. Henry Vincent and worn in 1909; Evelyn Vincent in a wedding gown dating to 1882 and belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. D. J. Vincent, and June Pacey in a dress made in 1877 and belonging to Mrs. Fred Sherman. Edward Heinle acted as bridegroom, Robert Blood as best man, Roland Shottliff as ring bearer, Catherine Davis as train bearer, and Anna Mae Shottliff and Eunice Stoxen, flower girls. The Rev. Ernest Kistler presided at the service.

In connection with the program there was an exhibit of old-fashioned clothes, including a bonnet of the year 1884 owned by Mrs. Fred Faulkner; one of 1870 owned by Mrs. Geo. Faulkner; and one of 1895 owned by Mrs. D. J. Vincent.

A baby dress of 1854 which had been worn by the late Fred Sherman; one of 1886 worn by Ivan Newell and one of 1894 worn by Mrs. Henry Vincent were also shown.
